SMALL FELLOWS ON "SHOESTRING" MARGINS SQUEEZED

Those Who Failed To Heed Warnings In Speculative Buying Are In Trouble

(Copyright 1915 by the New York Evening Post.)

New York, Oct. 5.—That the market has now become, not a measure of intrinsic or prospective value, but a measure of the endurance between infatuated speculators and the sober financial community was apparent from the start today. At the opening, some industrials sold from 1 to 5 points under yesterday's close while others scored overnight advances.

In the first hour or two a few declined further, but with the majority, the force of renewed buying from outside speculators advanced them. Towards mid day the movement in either direction had almost ceased. Then, in the afternoon, another general violent decline began. For a time this break seemed to be leading toward complete demoralization. Declines of five and ten points in as many minutes were numerous, and in the more violently active industrials, declines of one and two points between sales occurred. At the moment of greatest weakness, however, large buying orders were executed.

These checked the general downward movement. In the final half hour, a renewed selling movement of substantial proportions set in, and most of these stocks went down again, some to the day's low level. The market closed in the greatest confusion.

Small Fellows Squeezed

New York, Oct. 5.—The little fellow trading on a "shoestring" was ground between the upper and nether millstones of Wall street's great financial machinery in a market which showed irregular developments today.

One moment the professionals rided the market, only to send certain stocks to new heights the next.

Bethlehem Steel rang the bell at 400, whereas only one year ago, the stock was going begging at 30. Yet, in the same market, Baldwin Locomotive tumbled to 110, or 35 points lower than the record price last week.

Crucible Steel likewise struck the to-bogran, hitting 95 1/2.

The market closed weak.

DYNAMITE BLASTS SHAKE MINING TOWN

Town Is Also Plunged Into Darkness—Union Miners Ask For State Troops

Clifton, Ariz., Oct. 5.—Authorities were wholly at a loss today to discover the identity of persons who last night fired six dynamite blasts around the mine works at Morenci, or those who plunged Clifton into a terror of darkness for twenty minutes by overpowering the municipal lighting plant electrical and shutting off the current.

The blasts were carelessly placed where they would do no damage. The sheriff suspects they were exploded by striking miners for the purpose of intimidation.

While the town was in gloom, rocks were thrown through the windows of a drug store. Supposedly these stones were hurled at a drug clerk who had been heard to talk against the miners, who are striking for better working conditions and for recognition of the Western Federation of Miners.

Since the arrival of state troops, the tension has been somewhat relaxed. The general movement to have all women leave the strike district is abandoned.

Union Men Want Troops

Morenci, Ariz., Oct. 5.—Admitting the difficulty of holding striking miners in check in Morenci, union leaders here today asked that the state troops stationed in Clifton be transferred to this city. The Mexicans among the strikers want to drive out every laboring man without a union card.

Seven were chased out of town last night. Labor parades will be held here this afternoon. They will be merely demonstrations with no particular object.

The gates of the big reservoir about the Arizona Copper company's concentrator here, have been opened and 100,000 gallons of water per minute are tearing down the mountainside, doing no damage.

Compelled to follow the lead of Portland. Much depends whether they can afford to put on the high class films at the regulation ten cents admission.

H. W. Reinhard went to Portland this morning to demonstrate to automobile men his patented non-skidding device for autos. The patent is not only a protection against skidding, but especially useful in traveling through a sandy country.

During the establishment of a branch postoffice on the fair grounds state fair week, 200 letters on an average were handled daily. But it was the handling of second and third class matter that the convenience of having a branch postoffice on the grounds was appreciated, as an estimate, almost a wagon load of parcels were received and delivered to the various exhibitors every day. This was the second year for the office in the grounds and it has now practically become a permanent affair, as the same location in the new pavilion has been secured for next year.

BIG FOREIGN LOAN WAS OVER SUBSCRIBED

Many Anxious To Buy Were Unable To Secure Share of Bonds

New York, Oct. 5.—Without any fuss or ceremony the syndicate boom on the allied half billion loan closed at 10 o'clock today. Late applications for blocks of bonds came in a rush, but the loan was already over subscribed, although to what extent is not yet known. Rumors in Wall Street said the Dupont family took $35,000,000 worth, Charles M. Schwab $25,000,000 and other big financiers correspondingly large sections.

The work of selling small blocks to the general public will be started soon. Placing of the bonds on the stock exchange, and signing of a formal agreement between the commissioners and American bankers will be the next step in the situation. It will be several days before the bonds are ready for delivery.

Although Morgan & Company would not state the amount of subscriptions, reliable Wall street reports indicated the applications were for $650 million.

J. P. Morgan called the loan a "great success" and announced that subscriber's names would be made public later. Thus far, it is impossible to say in just what proportions the east, west and Pacific coast subscribed, though naturally a large portion of it came from the money centers of the east.

State Fair Board Is Prepared To Prosecute Gatemen for Alleged Fraud

The state fair board is ready with their evidence and willing to prosecute the cases of alleged fraud at the ticket gates according to Secretary W. Al. Jones today and if the matter is dropped it will not be at the request of the state fair board. The matter has been left to the district attorney to prosecute and the final disposition of the matter rests in his official hands.

According to Mr. Jones District Attorney Ringo stated that on account of the small amount involved, about $18, the parties could only be convicted of petty larceny and that the cases would be brought in the justice court but up to a late hour today no complaints had been filed in the justice court and no warrants issued for the arrest of anyone.

"You can say for the fair board," said Mr. Jones this afternoon, "that we have evidence which we are anxious to present and that the fair board has no disposition whatever to shield any of the parties concerned and that if the prosecution is dropped that it will not be at the request of the fair board, but will be against the will of this body."

There have been no new developments today in the matter of the alleged frauds at the fair gates this year although considerable interest has been aroused in the city on account of the prominence of the parties concerned.

Governor Moody's Grandson Died at Seattle Today

Portland, Or., Oct. 5.—Frank E. Moody, only son of Ralph E. Moody, general attorney of the Southern Pacific company, died at Seattle today after several days illness.

He was a University of Washington student. The funeral will be held at Salem tomorrow.

Officer Varney's Car Is Stolen From Garage

A five passenger King auto belonging to Speed Officer Percy Varney, was stolen from the Rees & Elgin garage last night and the officers have been able to secure no trace of the machine today. The thieves gained entrance to the garage by pushing off a board that had been nailed over a broken pane of glass in the door. Through this they reached the latch of a small door and then walked in and opened the main doors of the garage from the inside. The thieves rolled the car out of the garage and left for parts unknown without leaving a trace to direct the officers.

The theft was discovered at about 4:30 this morning when some friends of Mr. Varney went to secure the car to go hunting but by this time the car has scattered several miles behind it and nothing was heard from the nearby towns. The car bears the license number, 19274, and has a Motometer on the car of the radiator which will serve to identify the car as it cannot be removed without revealing some repairs to the radiator cap.

For his address on "Germany," to be delivered at the First Congregational church on the evening of October 17, the Rev. James Elvin announces that he has been fortunate in securing 50 stereopticon slides that have been shown but once on this coast. On the following Sunday, the special exercises of the evening will include an address by Mr. Elvin on "France and the Marcellites."

A district convention of the Odd Fellows will be held next Saturday at Hubbard, the district comprising all of Marion county with its 14 lodges. The convention will be in session all day Saturday, and in the evening initiatory work will be put on by the degree team of Cheneketes lodge, No. 1. If the weather is favorable, the Odd Fellows from Salem will go to Hubbard by auto; if not, the trip will be made on the Southern Pacific.

Howard Hickman, as "Silent Jim" Martin, senator from Oregon, in "The Man from Oregon," a five part Mutual Masterpiece of political life in Washington, scores one of the most striking successes ever accorded a screen player. Mr. Hickman is an actor of exceptional merit and, as many critics have averred, has only started his climb to stardom. To be seen at Ye Liberty theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The council of the Baptist church will meet next Thursday afternoon for the examination, and if satisfactory, the ordination of the Rev. B. S. Black, pastor of the church at Newport. The ordination sermon will be preached at the church Thursday evening. The Rev. H. W. Davis, of Eugene, had been selected to preach the ordination sermon, but as he cannot arrange to come, the speaker for the evening will be chosen from those attending the examination.

Here is a girl that ought to get a job without any trouble. In writing the Commercial club from somewhere in Idaho, she states there is a general impression in Idaho that this part of Oregon has a very salubrious climate, and that she would like to live here. As to her qualifications for work, she writes as follows: "Am qualified to do all kinds of clerical work, but at present, if such is not to be obtained, would be willing to do cooking and chambermaid's work." An interesting letter might secure further information by applying to the Commercial club.

According to the quarterly report just issued by Postmaster Huestein, the business of the postoffice continues to grow, with a substantial increase for the quarter ending September 30. From July 1 to the first of this month, the total receipts of the office were $17,532.13. This total is divided as follows: Postage on first class matter, $16,187.30; excess, $1.06; second class matter, $788.56; third and fourth class, $334.36; box rent, $220.85. The receipts of this quarter for first class mail, shows an increase of $633.19 over that of one year ago.

The schools in the different parts of the county seem to be studying geography and the natural resources of this part of the coast in a very practical way. A request came today to the Commercial club from Fairburn, Ga., from a sixth grade pupil, as follows: "We want samples of your industries; also some pamphlets and post cards." Miss Helen McLarin, of Fairfield, Ga., is the sixth grade pupil making the request, and it seems that if Miss Helen is so much interested, she surely should receive some "samples of our industries," besides a few post cards.

C. E. Albin heard a tiny jingle of his bicycle bell last night and rushed out upon his porch to find his wheel disappearing in the hands of a strange lad. Mr. Albin caught the boy and phoned for the police. At the station the lad gave the name of Ray Hawkins and said he was from Portland and that he came to this city with a horse trader. The boy was shod with moccasins and crept upon the porch without making a sound and was making a good getaway with the wheel when the bell hit a post and jingled. The police have been troubled of late by numerous thefts of bicycles and they intend to put a stop to the practice if possible.

The body of Clyde Brock, who committed suicide at Long, Ore., Sunday afternoon by shooting himself in the head, will arrive in the city this evening on the 10:30 Southern Pacific train, and will be buried tomorrow afternoon by the Odd Fellows lodge, of which he was a member. The body will be accompanied by Arthur Brock, a brother of the deceased, his wife, and the widow. Besides his widow and two children, Mrs. Nancy Brock, 1095 North Nineteenth street, and a brother living in Portland, the services tomorrow afternoon will be held either at the home of the mother, or at the chapel of Webb & Clough. Interment will take place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Portland moving picture theatres will all put in force a new schedule of prices beginning the 15th of this month when a price of 15 cents will be the regular admission for the evening, with 10 cents for afternoons. Five cent theatres will advance their prices to ten cents. This has been deemed an essay by the moving picture men on account of the higher prices asked by the film manufacturers, and by the fact that more elaborate and costly films are being constantly produced, and the public demand the best. This advance in the price of films has also affected the moving picture theatres in Salem, and while no change in the price of admission is contemplated here, the time may come when they will be
